1. Registration at FIU

If you are a new student, please follow the following steps and procedures:

First:

- Submit original copies of all your documents to the Registrar's Office.
- Apply for your Student Identity Card and collect your welcome pack which has been prepared for you at the Registrar's Office (Your photograph will be taken here!)
- If you are placed in a program where the language of instruction is English ask the Registrar's Office or The School of Foreign Languages for details about the English Language Proficiency and Placement Examination.
- Take the English Language Proficiency and Placement Examination.

Second:

- If you are placed in the English Preparatory School for full-time English lessons, see your School of Foreign Languages Advisor for Course Registration and take a copy of the course registration form.
- If you are entering your School or Faculty program directly, see the School, Faculty Secretary or Registrar's Office for information about your assigned Student Advisor.
- See your Student Advisor for Course Registration.

Third:

- Obtain your official email address from the IT Center. If possible, set up this e-mail account on your phone. Since all announcements will be sent to this email, you need to check it frequently. With your username and password you will also be able to access the Student Information System (SIS), WIFI, Library, LMS and all the computers on campus.
- Find out about the bus timetable for the University bus system from the Transportation Office or from our website. By downloading the FinalBUS app to your phone, you can also see the routes and the distance of the bus services to you.

If you are a previously registered student, all you need to do is:

- Find out what you need to pay for the semester from the Student Information System (SIS), Accounting Office or the Registrar's Office, and deposit the fee in the University bank account or use the Online Payment system on our website. After completing the payment process, then you can log into the Student Information System and pre-choose your courses. After making your course selection, you need to finalize your registration on campus with your Student Advisor.

2. Immigration and Residence Procedures

Immigration procedures are completed online from the website of the TRNC Ministry of Internal Affairs.

Steps to obtain Student Residence Permit (Immigration)

1. After completing your course registration, visit the web address www.icisleri.gov.ct.tr

From the "online services" menu, click on the "student permissions" link to start your application.

- Students who will register for the first time: after clicking on the "New Registration" tab and filling out the necessary information, they can log in with the username and password which they will receive via email and/ or SMS.
- Students who have previously registered: they can click the "login" tab and log in with the username and password they have previously received.

2. After logging in to the system, you must complete the procedures by following the steps on the site.
3. Do not forget to obtain a foreign registration number from the immigration system and do not lose this number. It is very important and necessary for you to keep this number, as all transactions to be carried out in government offices will be done with this number.
4. Please follow the steps for a Health Report
 - a. If you have a valid health report: select "I have a valid health report".
 - Go to the District Hospital where your university is located.
 - Verify your report in the Student Permissions section.
 - Pay Your Health Report fee through the system.
 - b. If you do not have a valid health report: select "I do not have a valid health report".
 - Pay your laboratory test fee through the system.
 - Have your health tests done in the laboratory which is specified in the system.
5. According to the results of the health report, you can pay immigration fees online through the system.
6. If the system indicates that your student permit is ready, you can obtain it from the Registrar's Office of the University.

3. Health Insurance

State Health Insurance

As part of their fees, all international students make an annual payment into our state insurance system. This means that free treatment is available through the state system for standard illnesses and accidents. The nearest state hospital is in Kyrenia, about ten minutes' drive from the University.

Pharmacies and Medicines

Pharmacies in North Cyprus are of a high standard and very well-stocked. A rota ensures that a nearby pharmacy will always be open whatever time of day or night. (<http://www.kteb.org/> Cyprus Turkish Pharmacists' Association website includes details of duty emergency pharmacy opening hours) However, if you rely on a particular specialized medicine, please contact the Medicosocial, so that we can check availability and cost.

Additional Private Health Insurance

Although not mandatory, you may if you wish take out additional private health insurance either from your own country or in North Cyprus; however, the State Health Insurance mentioned above is required. Our International Office will be able to provide additional information if you wish to obtain additional cover.

4. Banking

There are a number of different banks locally where you can open accounts. During the registration period, check with the International Office about your options in this regard, and the documents you will need to take with you. Banks are generally open between 08.30 and 12.30, and 13.30 and 16.30. During the summer, due to the summer operation hours, banks close at 14:00. In general, the local currency used is the Turkish Lira (TRY); however, US Dollars, Euros, and Pound Sterling are widely used. ATMs are available both on campus and nearby. Exchange Offices are common and offer the best rates for exchanging hard currency.

5. Driving in North Cyprus

The following regulations regarding driving in the TRNC currently apply:

Whilst you are in North Cyprus as a 'visitor' only, you may continue to use the driving license from your home country. Once however, you are officially registered as a student, you automatically lose this 'visitor' status as you are now officially resident.

From the date of your official registration as a student, you then have one month only to apply for an official TRNC Driving License to drive a vehicle with a capacity of not more than eight people. Once this one-month period has expired, the driving license from your home country will no longer be recognized as a valid permission to use a car. This means that: Whether driving your own car or a hired car, you would face legal penalties for driving without a license. Furthermore, in the case of any accident, any insurance claims for damage or injury would also be automatically invalid.

We therefore request all our students to ensure that they have completed all required application processes before driving in North Cyprus. Whether as a driver or as a pedestrian, please note that driving in North Cyprus is on the left.

6. Families and Student Consent Form

Once you are registered at a higher institution of education such as FIU, you are considered to be an adult. For legal reasons concerning confidentiality of data, we are not allowed to pass information about you to your families without your agreement.

Since most families wish to maintain close contact with their children, you will be asked during the registration period to sign a 'consent' form during the registration period. This will enable us to maintain communication and share information with your family as you proceed through your studies. When given the form, you may:

- Nominate a particular member of your family or sponsor from outside your family for this purpose.
- Request that your data is kept entirely confidential.
- Request that only certain information be shared with your family.

You may wish to discuss this issue with your families in advance.

7. Orientation and Adaptation Period

As you can see, there is a lot to do and a lot to get used to when you start University. For this reason, at FIU, every semester we hold an orientation week before classes start. The aim of this orientation is to help you adapt to life in North Cyprus and to familiarize yourself with the academic and administrative functioning of our University.

All students are strongly advised to:

- Start their applications in good time in order to arrive in North Cyprus before the beginning of the semester, allowing plenty of time to complete bureaucratic procedures, move into your dormitory, make new friends, and learn about the country.
- Attend the beginning of the semester orientation period.

You will then be in a position to concentrate fully and successfully on your studies.

Part II: English Language Program

8. Aims of the English Language Program

As an international University, FIU is committed to helping all students, whether studying departmental programs in English or Turkish to graduate with the highest possible level of English and foreign language proficiency. We also act on the belief that a solid language program does far more than develop language skills, but provides students with a full range of interpersonal, intercultural, technological and study skills that will serve them throughout their education and future lives. Language classes are therefore taken very seriously, and strong English language knowledge and skills are a vital foundation for academic success for students studying English medium programs.

9. FIU English Language Placement and Proficiency Examination

Part III: Your Studies

11. Advisory System

On registering at FIU, you will be assigned a Student Advisor. Your Advisor will:

- Help you register for your courses each semester, and ensure you follow the correct curriculum for your degree program.
- Follow your performance throughout your degree program and counsel and advise you as required.
- Assist and advise you with all other academic matters and concerns that you may have.
- You are therefore advised to stay in close contact with your Advisor throughout your studies.

12. Office Hours and Open-Door Policy

It is FIU policy to provide all students with maximum individual support. Therefore, the course instructors of every course that you take will timetable an official 'Office Hour'. The purpose of these hours is to enable you to visit your course instructors in their offices, raise any questions you have regarding the course, seek advice about improving your performance, and receive feedback about assigned work and examinations. You are advised to make regular use of these hours. FIU also practices an 'open-door' policy, which means that as long as your course instructor is available in their office, you will always be welcome to seek their advice and help.

13. Attendance and Absenteeism Policies

These guidelines will help you to understand our classroom attendance and absenteeism policies. They are important for several reasons:

- Students must attend at least 75% of the theoretical courses. The criteria for attendance and success in laboratories, studios and other application based courses are decided by the relevant faculty and school board.
- A student who does not attend 25% or more of a course without any valid reason within a semester will be considered as " failed" and will get the mark "NG".
- If for any reason, you will be absent from classes, please inform your course instructor(s) either personally, or by email, in advance whenever possible, or otherwise, as soon as you can. However, even if you do give prior notice, you will be recorded as absent for the days you have not attended.

If you are absent from class for more than 3 days, and have not informed your Course Instructor(s) or School /Faculty, The Registrar's Office will try to contact you directly. If they cannot contact you successfully, they will contact your family, and finally, if necessary, the Police.

This procedure is based on our commitment to your health, safety and security.

Absenteeism Due To Health Issues / Doctor's Report

Students who do not attend university due to health problems must provide a doctor's report. All reports need to be approved and signed by the Medicosocial Center within 3 working days from the report date and then immediately submitted by the student to their faculty or school.

Reports from FIU Medicosocial Center: the student is responsible for submitting the report to the relevant school or faculty on the day of receipt or no later than 3 business days from the end date of the report.

A report received from a doctor other than FIU Medicosocial Center: the student is required to confirm the report to the doctor of the FIU Medicosocial Health Center on the day it was received or no later than 3 business days after the end date of the report and submit it to their school or faculty. Visits abroad for medical treatment and accompanying certification must be approved in advance by the FIU Medical Social Center. Reports provided without obtaining prior approval will not be accepted.

Making Up for Absence

Students are responsible for visiting their Course Instructor(s) during an Office Hour or other convenient time to check on work and assignments missed, and do make-up work as appropriate.

Attendance and absenteeism of a make-up lesson

Students are required to attend a make-up lesson to be held by their instructor. However, students who submit a valid reason in writing to the course instructor may be exempt from the continuation of the make-up lesson.

Late Registering Students

Late registering student attendance records start from their first day of registration for the semester and this is valid only for first time registering students. Current students renewing their registration are responsible for visiting their instructors and making up for any work missed. In the second semester, students' attendance records will be valid as of the beginning of the course specified in the academic calendar, not as of the date of their registration, even if they have registered late and with a fine.

Lateness

If you are late for classes or leave early, it should be with good reason provided in advance. Lateness for classes is distracting to both instructors and students, and instructors have the right to mark you absent / not admit you to the lesson in question.

Attendance in First Week of Semester, Last Week of Semester, Travel Periods etc.

Attendance is taken for all scheduled classes. Please consider private arrangements such as travel home during holiday periods in advance, and again avoid any unnecessary absences from class.

Failure due to Excess Absenteeism

Please be aware that in the case of excess absenteeism, NG (nil grades) will be given, and you will be required to repeat the course in question. Students who receive NG cannot take the final exam, even if they succeed in other exams and/or projects of the course.

14. Classroom Conduct Guidelines

FIU classroom guidelines are designed so that each and every student gets the maximum possible benefit from their classes. For specific courses, course instructors may provide individual requirements which you will find on your course descriptions. In general, though, we ask all our students to be sensitive to the following:

- Being punctual and ready for classes, so that lessons start and finish on time.
- Having all the materials required for the classes – textbooks, notebooks, pens etc.
- Observing instructor guidelines regarding mobile technologies, which should be used for educational purposes only. At minimum, phones and tablets should be in silent mode.
- Using the official medium of instruction of the classroom (i.e. English in English medium classes, Turkish in Turkish medium classes.)
- Respecting the classroom environment by clearing away litter, not writing on desks etc.
- Avoiding distracting other students by chatting during classes, or interrupting the course instructor or other students.
- In short, we ask all our students to follow a simple principle of respect.

15. Textbook Policies

Many courses that you take during the course of your studies will require you to purchase textbooks. This is part of University life, and you should consider this when calculating your living expenses. We recognize that some books can be expensive, and do our best to keep costs to a minimum by negotiating with publishers and suppliers. It is very important to understand however that as a high quality university applying international standards:

- We cannot photocopy commercial textbooks for students. This breaks international copyright law.
- We do not condone students bringing photocopied or pirated textbooks to class. Not only does this break international copyright laws but could also lead to litigation.

16. Academic Integrity and Plagiarism

At FIU, academic integrity is an important value. Academic integrity standards pertain to all FIU academic staff and students and knowing these standards is within the responsibility of FIU academic staff and students. Academic integrity principles are applicable to all types of class activities, exam, assignment, project, and publication and violations of these principles are punishable according to the Student Disciplinary Regulations. You can find a copy of the Student Disciplinary Regulations and details on Academic Integrity and Plagiarism on final.edu.tr/regulations. As FIU students, you are expected to ensure that all submitted assignments are honestly produced and are your own work:

- Copied work (whether from the Internet, a fellow student, or elsewhere) will lead to automatic failure on tasks, and if repeated, to disciplinary action. This applies both to written work, and to oral work, such as presentations.
- Partially copied work will lead to non-grading of the copied sections and likely failure on tasks, and if repeated, to disciplinary action. This applies both to written work, and to oral work, such as presentations.

It is important in an academic environment that you learn:

- What exactly is plagiarism? See for example: <http://www.plagiarism.org/article/whatis-plagiarism>
- How to use an academic referencing system, such as APA. See, for example: <http://www.citethisforme.com/citation-generator/apa>
- How to avoid plagiarism by learning proper quoting, paraphrasing, and summarizing skills. See, for example: <http://en.writecheck.com/ways-to-avoid-plagiarism/>

Regardless of the reason, cheating or attempting to cheat on anything is considered to be a serious offense at FIU and will be evaluated according to relevant articles in the Disciplinary Regulations. As a result, it is the duty for all Final International University members to adopt and apply the principles of academic integrity. Please follow these rules to avoid any problems. Not knowing these principles is not an acceptable excuse!

17. Course Descriptions

For every course you take at FIU, you will be given a course description. The course description is an important reference document. Key information you will find here includes:

- The main aim of the course
- The learning outcomes for the course. Learning outcomes include the knowledge, skills and competences you should have achieved by the end of the course.
- A week-by-week schedule of course contents Details of how you will be assessed.
- Details of the credit value of the course, and also a second credit allocation according to the European Credit Transfer System (ECTS). The ECTS credit allocation tells you how much work approximately you should put into the course. The ECTS is a learner-centered system in which 1 credit counts for around 25 – 30 hours of study-time. At FIU, we calculate 1 ECTS credit to equal 25 hours of study. So if, for example, you are taking a 4 ECTS course, you would expect to do about 100 hours of study, including classes, homework, independent study, exams etc. If you divide these total hours by the number of weeks in the semester, you can then work out approximately how many hours work you should be doing outside class.

If you have any questions about the course description, make sure you ask your course instructor at the beginning of the semester.

18. Grading of Performance

Internal grading of student achievement is based on the local credit system, where 4.00 is the maximum achievable course credit. The grade descriptors of the original ECTS system (2003-2008) are used as a reference guide. See:

http://ec.europa.eu/education/ects/users-guide/gradedistribution_en.htm

Letter Grade Coefficient Description ECTS (2003-2008)

Letter Grade	Multiplier	Description	(2003-2008) ECTS descriptions
A	4.00	Successful	Outstanding performance with only minor errors
A-	3.70
B+	3.30		Above the average standard but with some errors
B	3.00
B-	2.70
C+	2.30		Generally sound work with a number of notable errors
C	2.00
C-	1.70	Conditional Pass	Fair but with significant shortcom
D+	1.30	Conditional Passings
D	1.00	Conditional Passings	Fail – More work required before the credit can be awarded
D-	0.70	Fail
F	0.00	Fail
NG	0.00	Nil Grade (Fail)
Letter Grade	Multiplier	Description	(2003-2008) ECTS descriptions
S (non-credit courses)		Satisfactory
U (non-credit courses)		Unsatisfactory
I		Eksik
W		Course Withdrawal

2.00 = This is the minimum CGPA a student needs to have in order to graduate from university.

3.00 - 3.49 = Honors 3.50 - 4.00 = High Honors

Students who received C, C+, B-, B, B+, A- and A grades specified in the grading system are considered successful in these courses.

D, D+, and C- grades are conditional passing grades, and as long as the student receiving these grades has a GPA of 2.00, they are considered successful in the courses in which they received this grade. If the GPA is below 2.00, whether the student will be considered successful is applied as specified in the Education, Examination and success regulation.

D-, F, NG, U, I and W letter grades are failing grades and these courses need to be taken again.

If a student registered to the normal course load of a program in a department scores a GPA between 3.00 and 3.49, she/he is designated as 'Honor' student, if the GPA is between 3.50 and 4.00 the student is designated a 'High Honor' student.

Except prep school students, students who have completed the first two semesters in their registered programs, have received the course load for the semester specified in the program and are the highest ranked top three students in their programs will receive scholarships. 40% for the first, 30% for the second and 20% for the third in their tuition fee, provided that the semester GPA (GPA) is 3.50 and higher and the overall GPA (CGPA) is at least 3.00.

Achievement Scholarships are for one semester and are re-evaluated at the end of each semester.

At the request of the student and the approval of the advisor, except for the preparatory school, after completing an academic year at our university, students with a GPA or a final semester average of at least 3.00 can take no more than one additional course.

19. Assessment Methods

Assessment methods are selected by course instructors in line with the learning outcomes of the course. Final exams must be assigned a 30-50% percentage.

Assessment may include traditional methods (such as multiple choice) and more performance based assessment, including presentations, essays, and projects. See individual course descriptions for more detail.

When you receive results for assessment, make sure you visit your instructor to get feedback about your performance and what you need to improve for next time round.

20. Learning How to Learn

Success at University level requires you to be an independent and proactive learner, who thinks critically, asks questions, takes responsibility for personal learnings and manages time and study efficiently. In your first year, take some time to explore some of the many sites that provide advice and assistance in how to study and revise effectively. The learning philosophy at FIU is centered around making sure that whilst you are studying your academic program, you are also developing practical employability skills.

21. Appeals for Assessment Reconsideration

It is the responsibility of the student to be aware of the FIU exam and success regulation. Students are advised to consult their course instructor and/or advisor and to familiarize themselves with the FIU By-Laws on Examinations and Success. In general, students have the right for work and grades to be re-assessed or recalculated as long as there are reasonable grounds for such a process to be initiated. Students are further kindly requested not to plead with, or otherwise pressure course instructors to increase their grades, regardless of reason. The FIU By-Laws on Examinations and Success also provide information concerning under what conditions both courses and examinations can be re-taken.

Part IV: More Academic Options

22. Transfer to Another Program

If you find that you feel you would benefit more from being in another program, you should contact the registrar's office as soon as possible. You may find that you are able to transfer much of your credit into a new program and be exempted from these lessons.

23. Double Major and Major-Minor Options

Under certain conditions, you may be able to gain additional qualifications through extra credit leading to double major or major-minor awards. The registrar's office will be able to give you more information and please read the Double Major and major-minor by law.

24. Student Exchange Systems

FIU has a number of protocols with universities in the TRNC and in countries like England, Turkey, France, Azerbaijan, Palestine, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, and Libya. This means that as of their second year of study, FIU students will be able to consider spending a semester or an entire academic year of their programs at a partner university or universities accredited by COHE. For more information on possible exchange options, please contact the Registrar's office.

25. Work and Travel

The International Office keeps a portfolio of options for summer travel, work, and short course study. For details, please contact the International Office. (international@final.edu.tr).

26. Internship and Work Placement

Most programs of study incorporate a work experience component which will be implemented in your third or fourth year of study. 30. A Student-Centered Philosophy

FIU has incorporated a student-centered philosophy as a central element in its organization and development. Student-centered learning means that FIU students are encouraged to develop the knowledge, skills and competences that enable them to:

Reflect actively and critically on their own learning and take responsibility for their own learning.

Relate their learning to the real world outside and the world of employment that they will enter.

Work collaboratively with others inside and outside the classroom.

Bring to the classroom their own learning and life experiences and share these with the class.

Relate theory to practice and understand and respect different viewpoints.

In student-centered classes, students play an active role through questions, requests and suggestions in shaping and developing their learning, and the classes are based on an appreciation of individual differences.
